Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Philadelphia Conservatory of Music: Prospectus 1918 1919 Forty-Second Season The Directors of The Philadelphia Conservatory base their claim to the consideration of the musical public solely upon the results they have achieved. The pupil of extraordinary musical talent owes comparatively little to the teacher, for the task of the latter is but guidance. A conservatory, therefore, should be considered not so much for its so-called prodigies as for the results achieved with the average pupil. For here is where the labor and unremitting care of the teacher count, and where his ability to inspire interest and enthusiasm into the pupil is essential. Advantages The superior advantages of the conservatory method are well known. The conservatory student has the benefit of working in a musical atmosphere. He has before him the example of other students. He is stimulated to work by the element of competition. There are the advantages of mutual criticism through which musical taste and judgment are developed, and the opportunity to train the observation and the perceptions as well as the formation of habits of close study. The musical entertainments also offer the student stimulus to work. The lower cost of conservatory education is a big factor, but this is insignificant compared with the great opportunities offered by The Philadelphia Conservatory of Music. It must be remembered that the courses in symphony, ensemble, and orchestra classes, also the lectures on musical topics, are open to the pupils free of charge. Degrees By virtue of the power granted to The Philadelphia Conservatory of Music in its charter, the Conservatory is empowered by Article Second to grant to its students diplomas or honorary testimonials in...
